CITY GROWTH DEMANDS CIVIC LEAGUE'S REVIVAL

Ambitious Program Outlined for Carmel's Future.

After a number of years of suspended animation the Civic League, one of Carmel's oldest and most successful community organizations, has awakened to renewed life. For many years the league, originally an auxiliary of the Arts and Crafts Society, was for all practical purposes the town government. It suspended its functions at or about the time of the incorporation of the town as the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, five years ago.

In the absence of President Willard a meeting was called last Friday evening by Vice-President Silva, at the residence of Miss J. M. Culbertson, the league's secretary.

The constitution and by-laws of the organization were revised to meet present conditions, and the following officers were elected: Edward G. Kuster, president; Miss Elsa Blackman, secretary, and Mrs. B. O. Warren, treasurer. A membership committee was appointed with the following members: Mrs. Cornelia Botke, Charles Sumner Greene and Dr. A. E. Burton.

The league has been revived, according to its officers, for the limited purpose of co-operating with the city authorities and with other existing organizations in a sustained and permanent endeavor to maintain the picturesque of Carmel; to that end to stimulate and foster a strong public sentiment opposed to "machine-made" ugliness; to discourage and, wherever possible, to prevent needless encroachments on the natural beauty of Carmel and vicinity; to enlist the sympathies of newcomers to Carmel in this ideal as soon as practical after their arrival; and to inculcate in the school children generally accepted principles of taste and love of natural, irregular and rugged beauty.

The attention and energies of the Civic League being concentrated on the single issue above mentioned, it aims to be of assistance to any of the more broadly organized groups of Carmel residents in any special instance where that issue is involved.

The subject is so vital to the happiness of most people who have chosen Carmel as their home that an occasional overlapping of the functions of two groups working toward the same end, though possibly along different lines, will be a source of strength rather than of confusion.

The league is already compiling a comprehensive directory of Carmel and environs and will endeavor to obtain the individual view of every adult resident on the ideal form of development for this community, and the direction in which its present rapid growth should, as far as practicable, be guided.

The league will also, at an early date, ask the co-operation of the board of trustees of the city, as well as that of other civic organizations, in bringing about the appointment by the trustees of a city planning and park commission.

Special memorial services in memory of His Honor Abbas Effendi, Abdul Baba, who departed this life at Mount Carmel, November 28, will be held at the Thudichum home, Carmel, Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

Pine Needles

R. C. Storie of San Jose, Carmel property owner, was a week-end visitor here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles King Van Riper are motoring in Arizona. However, they will be home for Christmas.

The time for paying municipal taxes without penalty is getting short. The last Monday of this month is the final day.

Mrs. Charles A. McCollom, is home again. She has been visiting her daughter-in-law at Pasadena for almost a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Ancil King of Alameda were here Saturday and Sunday, guests of their daughter, Mrs. Emma Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Parker and their two children will be down from Sacramento to spend the Christmas holidays in Carmel.

"Let us be thankful that our high school bus does not have to cross any railroad tracks," remarked a Carmel parent after the recent catastrophe at Chico.

"Cabbages and Kings," Hobart P. Glassell's new Carmel establishment, is on the way to becoming as famous as "Ye Olde Shoppe" and "Pig and Whistle."

The dispatch and receipt of mail will be greatly facilitated if patrons of the local postoffice will mail their parcels early. Last-day mailings cause delay and confusion.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Havens are spending a fortnight at Carmel Highlands Inn. They are leaving for New York soon, going via the southern route in order to visit in Los Angeles.

Prof. Samuel S. Seward, wife and daughter of Stanford were week-end visitors here. Just twenty-two years ago Prof. Seward, who is a descendant of Lincoln's Secretary of State, attended Oxford University with ye editor's brother, Prof. H. A. Overstreet.

Out of New York comes the news that Vasia Anikeeff was recently wed. The bride is Miss Sybil Brainard. They are living in New York, where the young Russian basso is studying with a famous teacher, and when not studying he rubs elbows with the Metropolitan stars.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Thomas Douglas gave a beach party to celebrate the eleventh birthday of Scott. The Junior Boys' club was invited and also twenty-five girls, making a merry party of fifty. The afternoon was ideal—blue skies, high surf and balmy air. Refreshments were served in the bath house, and a golden sunset lent a colorful halo to the close of a perfect day.

Charles P. Townsley, director of the Otis Art Institute of Los Angeles, and one of the most noted members of the art colony of Southern California, died recently in London. He was well-known in Carmel, where for three summers he conducted quite successfully a school of art, one season in conjunction with William M. Chase.

Mrs. B. E. Nixon was here several days recently. She returned from an Alaskan trip several weeks ago.

Miss Katharine Cooke, who has been on the staff of a San Francisco newspaper, is here for an indefinite stay.

The Yates studio will be occupied by Miss Edith Storer for several months. Miss Storer arrived here last week.

Recent Berkeley visitors here were Mr. and Mrs. Ross Edwards. They own real estate here and may decide to build before long.

Property on Camino Real near Ocean Avenue has been acquired by R. Austin James. The property may shortly be improved.

H. W. Turner and his daughter, Miss Frances, had as guests for a few days last week Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuart of San Francisco.

Guests at Highlands Inn last week included Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wallace of San Jose. Two years ago this couple were here on their honeymoon.

It is probable that before long a new residence will be erected on San Carlos Avenue next to the Burtons. Mrs. Florence Brown has purchased the property.

The house on San Antonio street, formerly the home of Harris G. Comings and family, has been purchased by Mrs. R. Jarvis. It will be altered and a studio built.

Through the kindness of J. B. Jordan, lessee of Pine Inn, the basement clubrooms of the hotel will be used as a meeting place by the Forest Theatre directors and other organizations.

The manner in which Carmel and Monterey business concerns are falling over themselves to place advertising matter in the Pine Cone shows what our merchants think of this journal as a publicity medium.

Frank C. Branch and W. T. Bick more of the B. & B. repair shop, Salinas, have filed and published a certificate setting forth that they are conducting business under a fictitious name. Two Carmel firms have done likewise, and the law obliges others to do so.

Funds for the Memorial

The Carmel Armistice Day Committee has voted that Mrs. E. A. Kluegel, Dr. C. A. McCollom and C. S. Greene be appointed the permanent Memorial Fountain Committee and that they be fully authorized to receive and expend all funds connected with the building of the memorial.

Many who are withholding subscriptions to the fund owing to the presence of the bell in the design may now "come through," as it has been decided to eliminate the bell.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN MONTHLY MEETING

Ocean Avenue Paving Plans Are Now Under Way

The Carmel Board of Trustees held its regular meeting last Tuesday night.

The matter of improving Ocean Avenue was referred to City Engineer Henry B. Fisher. This means that the work of paving our main thoroughfare with five inches of concrete is at last under way.

The board then discussed the proposed removal of their headquarters to the J. W. Hand building, for which an offer has been submitted and referred to Trustee Murphy with power to act.

After transacting routine business the board adjourned to meet Friday to consider further details concerning Ocean Avenue paving.

Distinguished Party Here From Southern California

Mrs. Lyman J. Gage of Point Loma, with a group of distinguished people from the south, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Wallace, have taken the Joybell cottage for a fortnight's stay. In the party are Miss Helene Richards, musician, foster sister of Mrs. Gage; Dr. Catherine Baynton, the well-known director of government child welfare work, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Barry, of New York, daughter of the most noted sculptor of Rome, and Kamuela Searle, the young American sculptor and painter, from Hawaii.

Additions to the party are expected to include the lecturer and president of the Southern California Psychic Research Association, Dr. Frank Riley and wife.

Mr. Searle's recent one-man exhibition of paintings at the galleries of Cannell & Chaffin and at the Hotel Ambassador in Los Angeles, and in Santa Fe, have been acclaimed by art critics as showing a most unusual inspirational quality, sincerity and mastery of vivid color. It is expected that a few of his pastels will be shown this month at Arts and Crafts Hall and at Del Monte.

Mr. Searle recently completed a portrait bust of Hon. Lyman J. Gage, ex-secretary of the treasury and president of the Chicago world's fair, who paid the artist the unusual compliment of ordering six bronze replicas of the bust.

Mr. Gage, who is vice-president of the American Psychic Research society, after investigating the scientific work being carried on here by Grant Wallace, became so impressed with its vast importance to humanity, that he has proposed to aid in promoting its preparation for publication in a series of illustrated volumes. It is this work of one of our pioneer residents which has drawn the group of visitors northward.

It is expected that several members of the party later will make their homes in Carmel.

There's still time to have that order for Christmas stationery executed at the Pine Cone office. Nothing more appropriate or satisfying, and it makes a smaller dent in the holiday budget than the average gift for adults. A pleasure to show the line.

Carmel, Cal., Dec. 7, 1921.

Editor of Pine Cone:

Some years ago when Carmel was not so well known as now, there was a little group of people living here in a very simple way. The truthfulness and beauty of that way might be justly called the Spirit of Carmel.

It may appeal to many of us if we could recall it or if we could know of it. Carmel is growing so fast that this spirit is in danger of being lost. In those early days everybody not only knew everybody else, but was an active member of the community. Though small groups may be more closely drawn together, especially when of similar professions, we need not despair for the bigger Carmel with its varied populace. Let us remember the old spirit and keep it alive.

Here is an incident or two that may serve to explain it: One day the noon hour was approaching and two ladies were about to have dinner, when a man of the community came along with his lunch under his arm and said: "Come to the beach." "We can't," they answered, "It is dinner time." "Bring it along," he suggested; so they took the pot from the stove, not forgetting the trimmings, and there was a party, including many others who joined when they saw the crowd.

There was a young woman who owned a lot and had money enough to buy the lumber for her house, but not enough for carpenters' wage. Members of the community built her house. Nobody thought of building pretentious houses, because they only needed a shelter and because there was too much beauty around them, and their own lives were full. Plain boards were just plain boards, and dress and house, neat or disordered, were not a ticket or a ban to admission to the elect.

This is no argument in favor of shacks or against good building. Let us do what we can afford, but let us do without sham or pretense, and with the utmost consideration for our neighbors and the spirit of old Carmel. There was a community-giving to the unfortunate or even the improvident and a helpfulness in daily tasks. When one's garden overflowed with abundance, the word went round. There was always a digging and sorting and other gardens received the benefit even to having the plants set out by those most successful. Anybody's ability was everybody's gain.

We can't pass all of these things on to a bigger Carmel, but we must not forget the Spirit that made them possible. Men and women came to Carmel and stuck to it, even though they hadn't enough to eat, because they loved it. This was not for the scenery, that seems the principal attraction of today, though it added to the joy of it. It was what they got from this little inspired group of people.

Don't let the spirit die. Let's forget Carmel as a place and remember it only as a spirit.

CHRISTMAS BAN IN 1643

Yuletide Observance Was Not Permitted by Edict of "Roundhead Parliament" in England.

IN THE northern part of Europe the ancient people kindled great fires to their gods, Odin and Thor, and sacrifices of men and cattle were made. The ancient Goths and Saxons termed this festival or feast "Yule," and we still use the word "Yuletide" in our day. Among the Teutons this holiday season was celebrated by decorating giant fir trees. The decorations consisted of lights, nuts, balls, golden apples and animals. These were to symbolize flashes of lightning, moon, stars and sun, while the animals represented sacrifices.

Christmas was not among the early festivals of the church. We find the first evidence of the feast from Egypt, according to the historians of the church, and December 25 was not the day on which it was universally celebrated. It was not until the Fourth or Fifth centuries that the celebration of the festival on this day spread to the East. The Nativity was celebrated December 25 at Rome before 354, and at Constantinople, not prior to 379.

As paganism began to be supplanted by Christianity, many of its old customs were taken and handed down through the generations. In the Anglo-Saxon days of King Alfred the holiday season began December 16 and closed January 6. When Puritanism arose in England the fate of Christmas was threatened for a time, and even extended to this country, since the Puritans brought along with them to New England a feeling against the celebration of Christmas.

In 1643 the "Roundhead parliament" in England put a ban on the observance of Christmas. The court of Massachusetts in 1659 followed England's example and Christmas was put under a ban there. With the restoration of the English royalty the restoration of Christmas was brought about, and Massachusetts again followed England's example and in 1661 the ban was lifted. From this time on Christmas has remained, and is now celebrated throughout the entire civilized world.

SHOULD MAKE OTHERS HAPPY

Best Way to Celebrate Christmas is to Do Something in Memory of Childhood Days.

IT SEEMS that when one has grown a little old, the best and the happiest way to celebrate Christmas is to do something for remembrance—in remembrance of one's own childhood, for Christmas is really for the children, after all.

It is for children more than for others because it is a day that commemorates the birth of a child—that wondrous Christ child that was born in a manger of a stable in the little town of Bethlehem 2,000 years ago.

Now, there will be scarcely a child in all the world who will not await the dawn of Christmas morning with a wondering soul. It is the dawn of that day when the morning stars sang together, and when peace on earth and good will toward men were proclaimed from the high heavens. But there will be many a child to whom Christmas will not bring its dearly longed for happiness.

The children of the rich will not be disappointed, nor will the children of the very poor be disappointed. It is the child who has not rich or well-to-do folks, but who, at the same time, is not subject for charity, who will be unhappy when Christmas comes.

And it is this child that you should seek out and make happy—for remembrance.

You see, it is a fact that we can make a happy Christmas for ourselves only by making some one else happy. Do not think that you can make a happy Christmas for yourself any other way, because you cannot do so.

Try the way here pointed out. The child is easily found, and when you have found that one and have made it happy, the very angels of God will envy you the gladness that you will feel.

FOR Youngsters.

Youngsters enjoy working with colored beads and for them a gift of a box of assorted colored glass beads is quite appropriate. These beads are used for kindergarten work and are quite inexpensive.

The GARDEN BEAUTIFUL

If it be desired to add to the trees already growing on your lots, or to plant on lots where there are no native trees, the following trees are recommended:

Coniferous trees (Native Californians) Abies alba "White Spruce"; foliage, silvery gray and bark of light color.

Abies Douglasii "Douglas Spruce"; conical form; spreading horizontal branches; needles light green above, glaucous below; a beautiful fairly rapid-growing tree.

Pinus Coulteri "Pitch Pine" forms a loose, pyramidal head; branches pendulous below and ascending above; cones of the largest size; a handsome tree.

Pinus ponderosa "Yellow Pine", a very rapid grower, reaching a height of 150 feet.

Sequoia Sempervirens "Redwood" of rapid growth, especially if abundantly watered.

The above are a few of the many American coniferous evergreens suited for planting among the Carmel pines. To these could be added many more. It is safe to say that any kind of coniferous tree would be artistically available for Carmel gardens.

A very beautiful deciduous conifer from Florida is the "Bald Cypress" (Taxodium distichum); it has tender light green leaves and grows into a handsome pyramidal shape; it is of very rapid growth and its color of foliage and bark would stand out beautifully against a background of other dark coniferous trees. The European Larch should do well at Carmel; it is very handsome, especially in early spring, when its long slender branchlets show the tender new needles and the coppery red young cones.

Among deciduous trees should be also included the many varieties of oaks, native and foreign. Here are a few out of the many available:

The English Oak (Quercus robur). The Valani Oak, a native of Asia Minor and the Grecian islands; a magnificent shade tree with spreading crown.

The Turkish Oak, with finely-lobed foliage, which changes to brown in winter; also a rapid grower.

The Scarlet Oak; a pyramidal tree of rapid growth.

Among American Oaks may be mentioned:

The Valley Oak, which grows to such magnificent trees in the San Joaquin and all through the California valleys.

The Pin Oak; deep-green foliage which changes to rich scarlet and yellow in autumn.

The American Red Oak; grows rapidly into a large tree; foliage purplish red in autumn.

Besides these there are several varieties of native "Live Oaks" available of which some are already growing in the Carmel woods. The "Cork Oak" of Southern Europe and North Africa is a very ornamental tree and thrives well here.

Of Maples, the Japanese varieties are very handsome and with other Japanese shrubs and plants could be made to give a very artistic tea-garden effect under the native Carmel pines. A few silvery White Birches among the dark pines would look handsome.

A few more trees of smaller size, whose flowers and fruitage would lend a bit of brightness to the darkness of pine woods, are:

The European Mountain-Ash; has a dense and regular head when young; afterward, great bunches of creamy, fragrant flowers; very early in spring it loads itself with fine clusters of bright scarlet berries, of which the robins are fond.

The American variety of the last mentioned tree is a coarser tree yet very handsome, and its berries are of lighter color. The last two are especially recommended for Carmel street-planting.

The European Chestnut, a south-land tree of much charm.

The native "Redbud" or "Judas Tree"; rapid growth; foliage is of a fine deep-green color, but before the heart-shaped leaves come out in spring the tree is one profusion of delicate reddish-purple flowers literally hiding the branches.

The Hawthorns in many varieties are also desirable with their profusion of white, scarlet, crimson, single and double flowers.

There are also a number of very handsome deciduous Magnolias, most of them from China and Japan, which are fine and striking and very ornamental, and which would grow well in the half-shades among the pines and oaks. The Magnolia stellata is a beautiful dwarf species producing white flowers, semi-double, fragrant. It blooms in March and April. M. Soulangeana gives a profusion of white flowers with purple at the base of the petals. It blooms in March.

Some of the topics for later discussion in these columns will be: Shrubs, Evergreen and Deciduous, Climbers, Bulbs, Seed-planting, etc.

Star of Bethlehem in Holland.

In Holland the harbinger of Christmas is a huge illuminated star which is carried through the silent, dark, Dutch streets, shining upon the crowd of people and significant of the star which once guided the three wise men of the East. The young men who carry the star through the streets gather money for the poor from the crowds who come out to watch for it. After this they betake themselves to the burgomaster of the town, who, according to custom, is bound to set the youths down to a splendid meal. This is a very great institution in many Dutch towns.

Sauce for Plum Pudding.

Serve foamy sauce with plum pudding. To make it, cream together one-half cupful of butter, one cupful of powdered sugar; add gradually one well-beaten egg and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Heat the mixture in a double boiler, beating it thoroughly all the while.

The Portable Lamp.

The cheapest and most generally useful electrical appliance and at the same time the one most seldom taken advantage of in the ordinary household is the portable lamp. This simply consists of a few yards of flexible insulated wire, at one end of which is fixed an ordinary plug to screw into a wall or chandelier socket and at the other a lamp socket. The cost is very little.

The Glad Yuletide

By Darris Earl Maston

TALK about the joyous May-time with its blossoms on the trees,
With the strumming and the humming of the little honey bees
Rioting in all the sweetness of the orchard over there,
And the summer breezes talking little love words everywhere.
Yet there's something more heart-thrilling in the Yuletide's silver chime
Calling all hearts to be merry for the joyful Christmas time.

Of the sweetly scented summer with its breezes soft and mild,
And the laughing little brooklet dancing like a happy child,
And the shimmer of the sunshine over all the happy land,
Tousled grasses in the meadow, leafy wood so green and grand
Make you think there's nothing grander — summer is just superfine!
But it doesn't stir your pulses like the happy Christmas time!

Of the happy days preceding, when there's secrets everywhere,
Love-light beaming in all faces, drowning out all petty care;
There's a love and lift and lightness that no poet has expressed,
There's harmony and gladness that the summer never guessed,
There's a something most appealing in the Yuletide's silver chime
That makes every heart beat happy for the joyful Christmas time!

The Great Giver.

Christmas is the birthday of Jesus, who never gave the world a dollar, and bestowed upon mankind no other material gift. "He carved no statue, painted no picture, wrote no poem, composed no song, fashioned no piece of jewelry, built no edifice, founded no city, erected no triumphal arch; but He stands in history as the Great Giver." Such as He had He gave: the sympathetic hand, the genial mind, the generous heart, the courageous spirit, which all worked together to build up out of the human the divine. The Father gave us first His universe; then He gave His Son; now He offers His Spirit.—Adapted.

Sweet Sauces.

It is usual in England to serve what American housewives call "soft sauce" with the Christmas plum pudding, but the delicious "hard sauces" which we ourselves affect make a nice change. Soft sauces take the form of a thin hot custard, which will be all the more creamy if a few spoonfuls of condensed milk are stirred in after the custard is made in the ordinary way. Another favorite sauce is made by adding sugar to melted butter.

AS USUAL

"I suppose you've finished your Christmas shopping?"
"Yes, and it's finished me."

CHRISTMAS 300 YEARS AGO

First Yuletide Eve of the Pilgrims
Was One Saturated With Grave
Fear of Attack.

SITTING about their campfires on Christmas eve, 300 years ago, the Pilgrims on shore heard a cry in the woods and jumped to their feet, expecting a sudden onrush of whooping Indians. The attack failed to materialize. How the Pilgrims spent Christmas is told in the journal they have left, which says: "No man rested that day."

The settlers were nervous, and again at night they left well-armed men on guard.

These poor fellows on shore did not have any Christmas beer to drink. About this time, it seems, the beer supply was running low, and Captain Jones of the Mayflower was guarding his stock. Apparently he put everybody on a water basis. But Christmas night he relented. Beer was served to those of the Pilgrims who were on the ship.

$550 for a Christmas Tree.

An electrical firm in London has been busy for some months on a remarkable Christmas tree, which had to be sent overseas in time for Christmas day. An immense "fir" tree, all in metal, is festooned with bunches of "fruit." Even the grapes have a tiny bulb inside them. By turning on a switch the tree becomes a blaze of light. The cost of this novel tree is $550, but it will last for many years.—Tit Bits.

 About this time o' year,

 They never want us to

When all the seats in Sunday school

— King's Messenger.

IN DOUBT

Wife — This year you must tell me just what you are going to give me for Christmas.

Hubby — But how do I know what you have decided upon?

Christmas in the Shetlands.

In the Shetland Islands they celebrate an old Christmas Eve, January 5, and on that occasion the young men and children go "a-gossiping." The children disguise themselves in strange dresses, parade the streets and invade the houses and shops begging for offerings. At one o'clock the young men, coarsely clad, drag blazing tar barrels through the town, blowing horns and cheering. At six o'clock in the morning they put off their grimy clothes and dressed in fantastic costumes go in groups to wish their friends the season's compliments.

Novel Christmas Tree Decorations.

Effective Christmas tree decorations can easily be made at home. Take candy sticks and dress them up in crepe paper and ribbon and thus convert them into novel candy dolls. Gilded nuts, acorns hung from the branches with colored ribbon and balls of cotton sprinkled with diamond dust, as well as rings of tiny gumdrops strung on white thread make effective trimming.

Should Remember the Needy.

There is another thing than Christmas shopping that should be attended to as early as possible by those who can afford it, and that is the making of Christmas donations for the poor.

THE BIG COMMUNITY HOLIDAY

Christmas Should Not Be Confined to Family Celebrations; Make It General Joy Fest.

CHRISTMAS should not be confined to our own family. Christmas is of all days Community Holiday and the entire community should be taken in for celebrating the occasion. Every community should have in the local church, or schoolhouse Christmas exercises of some sort or other. The giving of recitations is one of the very best trainings for children and cannot be started too soon. As soon as they are able to lip they should be given a part in Christmas entertainments. It is a means of much pleasure to them and something they will remember as long as they live.

Christmas, in the country of all places, should be a community holiday. It's too big a thing to be kept all within your family.

Bethlehem.

TODAY the whole Christian world prostrates itself in adoration around the crib of Bethlehem and rehearses in accents of love a history which precedes all time and will endure throughout eternity. As if by an instinct of our higher, spiritual nature, there well up from the depths of our heart emotions which challenge the power of human expression. We seem to be lifted out of the sphere of natural endeavor to put on a new life and to stretch forward in desire to a blessedness which, though not palpable, is eminently real. Cardinal Gibbons.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

Former newspaper men, of whom there are a number in Carmel, will find much to interest them in the recently issued "History of The New York Times—1851-1921", by Elmer Davis. It is a splendid resume of perhaps the most interesting newspaper development in the history of the United States. To newspaper men such a volume is of infinite value. To an outsider it carries with it the romance of journalism. To the historian it means even more.

Francis Brett Young in his new novel, "The Black Diamond", gets under the skin of the proletarian as no other novelist ever has. His hero has the surface roughness of the men of the pit country, but he has also their strength and blundering along under responsibilities not of his own creating. He compels in the reader a sort of sympathy curiously near to affection. And a reader senses the beauty of an English countryside beyond the blackness of the pits as only Brett Young can make one feel it.

"Not to read Rose Macaulay's finest novel, "Dangerous Ages", is to deny oneself an intimate acquaintance with one of the greatest living novelists."

"One knows not where to look, except to Mr. Galsworthy himself, for so adroitly a manipulation of the forces which make up the drama of a modern family group—the interplay of personalities different from each other, yet subtly alike; the cross pull between different generations of the same blood; the poignant intimacies and the inexplicable barriers" pictured in "Dangerous Ages". "Potterism" was good, but Miss Macaulay's latest novel is better, much better.

"The Threshold" is a novel of American life, by Evelyn Campbell, dealing with a problem inherent in our social structure—the right of youth to become the arbiter of its own destiny. Its principal characters are five widely dissimilar people, each representative of one or another element in our life today and each struggling for some kind of victory over environment.

Then it is a study in contrasts between the two kinds of love—the love that is a physical fascination and the love that is the fruit of a spiritual impulse. It is a book which, however significant as a study of contemporary life, is above all a dramatic and moving story.

A story of the life of artists, sculptors, actors and writers in Greenwich Village is "Glorious Hope".

What makes Jane Burr's novel so fascinating is that the author simply tells what she sees happening in the world about her, and because she has really seen it for herself we get new vision of that world through her eyes.

"The story of the Young Woman Who Comes to New York to Make a Career for Herself has been told many times. But Jane Burr saw something nobody else had ever seen in that Young Woman; she saw her desire for achievement, balked by lack of talent, turning itself into ruthlessly altruistic channels—and first of all into love. After all, women do sometimes fall in love with men, not because they are strong, but because they are weak! . . . The tragedy-comedy of the swift snarling and the slow entanglement of their emotions makes the drama of the novel. And it is not only quite a new thing in the world of stories, but—like all human relations deeply realized and candidly set forth—it startles us by casting a light into the mysterious darkness of our own troubled thoughts."

"The Wasted Generation" has that rare quality of glamour which distinguishes literature from mere reporting, however sincere," writes Gertrude Atherton. "After the plague of American tadpoles that have wriggled through our fiction during the past year, Owen Johnson's novel, with its breeding, its depth of insight and feeling, its selection of the higher types of Americans—handled with sympathy and ruthlessness, and neither spurious optimism nor affected pessimism—its aliveness, its ominous warnings, the intense interest of the story, is a welcome tonic to both mind and spirit. It places Mr. Johnson definitely among the few aristocrats of modern American literature."

No professional jealousy here.

MAKE MERRY ON CHRISTMAS

Calabrian Minstrels of Rome, With Silvan Pipes, Started Celebration Ten Days in Advance.

CHRISTMAS used to be celebrated in Rome by the arrival of Calabrian minstrels with their silvan pipes ten days before Christmas. In every street of the historic city they would play their wild, plaintive music before the shrines of the Madonna. These minstrels or "pifferari," as they were called, became rare after the latter part of the Nineteenth century. In Sicily men came down from the mountains nine days before Christmas to sing a "novena" to a plaintive melody accompanied by violin and cello.

The music of chiming bells features Christmas the world over. In the Philippines the dawn of Christmas is ushered in by ringing of bells in scores of church towers, calling the people to service. In the dark they flock to the churches to the familiar notes of the "Adeste Fideles."

The music-loving world agrees with the stranger in Bracebridge hall, "I do not know a grander effect of music on the moral feelings than to hear the full choir and the pealing organ performing a Christmas anthem in a cathedral and filling every part of the vast pile with triumphant harmony."

Well Informed Youth.

"Does your boy believe in Santa Claus?"

"I'm not sure whether he does or not. Sometimes I suspect he thinks I believe in Santa and he hates to deceive me."

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

GLAD Christmas Day is here again, with loving word and deed. When all get much they do not want, and little that they need.

The baby's jacket cousin sent, we can't get on at all, And mother's slippers are too large and father's are too small.

And sister Zella got a hood she'll be afraid to wear

Because its color clashes with the color of her hair.

And brother Henry got some books from pious Uncle Ned,

And after he had told him, too, he hoped he'd send a sled.

Postmaster General's Christmas Message

To the boys and girls of the United States:

Christmas is almost here. Your great postoffice department has a big job ahead and needs your help.

Think what it means to be Santa Claus to our 100,000,000 people and to deliver parcels to every family in this great country within the short space of a few days and without disappointment.

It can be done, and we're going to do it if we may have your help. I want the active assistance of every boy and girl in the schools of our country in getting parcels mailed THIS WEEK to relieve the rush that comes directly before Christmas.

The parcels must be well wrapped and tied and addressed plainly in order that they may arrive in good condition with their Christmas appearance unspoiled.

You can put on your packages, "Do not open until Christmas."

Every day that you drop a letter into the mail box 40,000,000 other letters are already pushing and jamming through the postal machinery. One letter a day for each family of five persons in the United States is given to Uncle Sam to deliver. When you send a parcel to the postoffice any day there are about 8,000,000 other parcels ahead of yours passing through the postal hopper. This is in ordinary days; at Christmas time it is multiplied many times.

One family in about every ten puts a badly addressed letter in the mail every day. This mixes up over 2,000,000 half-addressed letters with the 40,000,000 fully addressed letters. That means that the fully addressed letters must wait on the slowly-moving, poorly addressed letters, just like the larger boys and girls are delayed by a bunch of "bad kids" tagging along. You boys and girls can help the postal service and save your father some money, because he has to help pay the cost of searching the addresses on letters and parcels sent out by this one careless and thoughtless family in every ten.

The address on every letter, card or package must be correct, complete and legible, including the house number and name of street, and the "From" address should be in the upper left hand corner so that the mail will be returned you in case it is not delivered. Do not abbreviate names of states, because so many look alike when so abbreviated. Put the proper amount of postage on your letters and wrap the parcels carefully. Avoid fancy writing, which causes postoffice clerks and letter carriers to stop and study, and thus lose time. Make the address plain and easily read, and always use pen and ink or typewriter and light-colored envelopes, so as to save the eyes of the postoffice clerks. Do not use envelopes of unusual size. The little ones that are so frequently used for cards and notes at Christmas or other holiday times cause an untold amount of trouble and labor, as they will not fit our canceling machines and must therefore be canceled by hand. Because of their size and tendency to slip out of a package, these small envelopes are more apt to be overlooked or lost.

Do these things and you will win the grateful appreciation of the people in your postoffice and especially of your postmaster general.

WILL H. HAYS.

Postmaster-General Hays' efforts toward securing co operation with the postal service have brought forth the following letter of appreciation from a Carmel correspondent of the New York Herald. The letter is printed in the November supplement of the United States Official Postal Guide:

"After reading in your paper of October 3 the experience of 'E. T. C.' with the improved postal service, I wish also to add that my New York Herald is delivered to me daily by mail at Carmel, Calif., within five days of its issue at New York City.

The New York Herald of October 4, 1921, I received at Carmel the afternoon of October 8. This is exceptionally good service, as Carmel is more than sixteen miles from the main line of the Southern Pacific railroad and five additional miles by stage from Monterey, our nearest railroad station. We all appreciate here very much this splendid service."

MUCH Affected.

"Come, now! Don't look so miserable!" said a Tumlinville photographer. "Just pretend in your own mind that you are going to get married tomorrow."

"Dad-burn the dad-burned luck!" returned the Arkansas sifter. "That's precisely what I am going to do!"

CARMEL SHOPS AND SHOPKEEPERS

By The Pine Nut

The time has come to speak of many things.
Of shoes and ships and sealing-wax,
And Cabbages and Kings."

So said the Walrus to the Carpenter in that delightful little classic, "Alice in Wonderland." Hobart P. Glassell gave me the above quotation when I started to make a round of the Ocean Avenue shops, which never looked so colorful and attractive as at this Christmas season. Mr. Glassell is a poet, and quite a bit of an artist, as well as an up-and-coming business man. He has named his establishment "Cabbages and Kings, Ltd." Think of a store that handles men's haberdashery, furniture design, Yaeger woollens for women, antiques, art goods, Fifth Avenue stationery, imported cigarettes, office supplies and fixtures. Isn't that from cabbages to kings? Then that's only a small part. Mr. Glassell will send to your homes experts in interior decoration; he will have made anything that you wish in any material that you wish; he can supply you with any rare things for your garden. I really believe he could fill your order for a pound of radium or a crown of royalty. He is just full of pep and he believes thoroughly in his own wares. Success to him! May his shadow never grow less.

I was curious to see what the other new stores were offering for the Christmas trade, so I went across the street next. I found our Mrs. Basham, old resident of Carmel, the presiding goddess of the new candy store. Do you know that I would gladly pay double the price of an ice cream soda just to have her smile at me and see her happy, cheery face behind the counter. But how can she help but be sweet with such an assortment of sweets around her. Toothsome candies, Xmas boxes, everything that you might find in any metropolitan palace of sweets in the world. Here's hoping she makes a million—but then, pshaw! She knows that won't make her any happier than she is right now.

Speaking of pleasant personalities, Miss Tilly Polak, who is showing a most rare and original lot of gifts and antiques in the front of the Pine Cone office, is a joy to talk with—and one thing is sure—she knows what she is talking about, especially on the subject of Dutch antiques. She has a beautiful old—well, I'm just crazy about it, and if I told you what it was you'd run and get it before I could raise that seven dollars, so—

I mustn't forget to speak of our new shoe-repairer. It seems to me that he must fill a long-felt want, and he's pleasant and accommodating. I believe he's a constructive socialist, for he pounded a hard spot out of one of my shoes and then spurned my money.

Tiffany's has nothing on our local jeweler. Charles Frank, representative of the Schaefele Jewelry Co., tells me that their slogan is "The House of Quality." I believe it. Aside from the regular line of staples they are carrying a superb line of souvenir goods, including some really interesting abalone jewelry.

Bob "Hoover" Leidig is getting in a new stock of fancy baskets, children's toys and electrical appliances, and you can select them to the soft (?) strains of a Columbia Graphanola, which, by the way, would make "some Christmas present" for "someone."

French ivory is Dr. Beck's present enthusiasm. He has it in abundance. Why not "say it with ivory" for her dressing table? He has his usual fine line of perfumes, fancy stationery, etc.

Everyone in Carmel is pleasant—at least they all were to me when I sauntered through the stores. Jacob Davis, of the firm of Davis & Davis, beamed all over when he told me about his candies. They are Haas's and their quality is guaranteed, as we all know. He has some very attractive-looking one-pound cartons of assorted cookies and dried fruits, put up in good looking boxes.

When I go into Edler & Ward's and look at that new vegetable rack, my heart just bubbles over with joy, and I find a desire come stealing over me to become a vegetarian. That rack makes the "garden-sass" look so clean and attractive. Each little carrot and each little turnip becomes a sort of glorified heart-throb, as it were. I wonder if it has ever occurred to you that Mr. Edler dresses a most attractive window.

I would like to trade more with Ernie Schweninger if his store wasn't always so full of people who get there first. Ernie has his usual line of up-to-date groceries, and I will say that I saw there the most beautiful box of assorted fruit that was ever packed ready for shipment. That really solves a big problem during the holidays. Just give Ernie a name and address, and a very small part of your Christmas budget, and some dear friend will receive an appetizing assortment of California dried fruits. In fact, the effect is so artistic that it looks too good to eat. Rather it should be given honorable mention at a studio exhibition.

The Carmel Bakery proprietors intend to have a real Christmas of their own. They announce that they will roast chickens and turkeys for Christmas dinners up to 12 o'clock Christmas day, but not after that. Of course, they are specializing on fruit cakes and fancy pastry. Our compositor says it is the best bakery in the State of California, and that their "symphonies" in dough harmonize perfectly with the local atmospheric tone.

Stella Guichard—how well I remember her little shop of ten years ago. Commencing on a small scale, she has worked patiently and persistently and, I may add, always conscientiously, and now she is carrying a full stock of everything in the dry goods line, from hairpins to hats, and at such reasonable prices that they surprise me at times. She has just added an interesting line of Japanese goods and they make a very brave showing.

L. S. Slevin is the good old Carmel standby. If he should suddenly decide to migrate, who would sell us fountain pens and Eversharp pencils, and who would take our magazine subscriptions at lowest club rates, and who would see that we got the metropolitan dailies? But then, too, who would be fortunate enough to have such an alert and altogether charming business woman as the little lady who assists him? When I run across there for a bottle of ink or sheet of carbon paper, I have to leave my pocketbook at home, and charge what I buy to the Pine Cone, because I find it hard to resist those lovely postcards, reproductions, and beautiful little water-colors that he carries in such variety and quantity.

And now, I guess I am through with the Carmel shops—but no. Those two delightful places of Mrs. Yard's and Miss Hunkins' must not be left out. It was one of those heavenly days a short time ago when Brownie, the Pine Cone mascot, and I sauntered down Lincoln street to Mrs. Yard's quaint little thatched-roof studio. The whole color scheme and atmosphere of her place is most restful and satisfying. She has some rare old dishes—Chinese—and some beautiful Japanese obis, which can be used for panels and runners. Her hand-made toys and doll furniture would delight any of the weaker sex, regardless of age.

Miss Hunkins has given to the Blue Bird Tea Room a real informal home atmosphere. I wanted to have a cup of tea and sit and enjoy the lovely view from her windows, but they were waiting for copy back at the office, so Brownie and I had to hustle along, although I felt that my work there was not half done. She has so many lovely and appropriate things in her gift shop that I was lost when it came to specializing.

In this little sketch I am leaving out the real-estate, and the builders and the plumbers, and the hotels—but their offerings are always useful and seasonal. Yes, I stoutly maintain that even a bathtub is at times a work of art.

As I approached Curtis candy store I began to have that warm, Christmasy feeling, and it was altogether due to Mr. Curtis' lovely Christmas trees outside the store. Then, when I got inside I found that besides his regular stock, he had all sorts of Christmas tree "fixins." Why, do you know, oh fathers of Carmel, that if Santa Claus lost his beard last year, Curtis has a perfectly lovely one for him—guaranteed real hair. But the thing I wanted most was one of those aeroplanes. I never have been able to resist even an ordinary balloon, and those lovely things! They are just too sweet—and they come in red, yellow, green and blue. I just hope I get one for Christmas—Don't you, kiddies? Well, there is some hope for you if Mr. Curtis follows his usual custom of a community tree, with a present for each child in town—but what about me? Just remember, when you get tired of your aeroplane, that I whispered it to you first. One of our office force just told me about that tree, and I can't help thinking about it. I like you for it, Delos Curtis. If our 1-2-4 concrete mixture were in, I'd ask you to put that tree in the middle of the street and we'd have a real celebration, dancing and Christmas carols and everything.

Good friends of Carmel, the Pine Nut salutes you and predicts for you a prosperous holiday season.

CHRISTMAS TIME IN FRANCE

Yuletide Season Great Time for Display of Green Plants; Houses Filled With Decorations.

IT IS the Le Petit Jesu that brings gifts to the French children at Christmas time. He never forgets a good child and is sure to slip something into the wooden shoe of the child if it is left at the door. He has, however, been known to leave pebbles in the shoe of one who has been naughty.

To the French, Christmas is the great time for greens. Everywhere one sees the brilliant polsetta flower displayed. The houses are filled with mistletoe and holly, and half the fun of Christmas consists in getting the greens and decorating the houses. The houses are then ready for le Jour de l'An, or New Year's day, which is the gayer of the two festivals.

The Hodening Horse.

ABOUT the middle of the Nineteenth century it was the custom in Kent for the male farm-servants to go on Christmas eve from house to house with the hodening horse, which was an imitation of a horse's head, life size and made of wood, and fastened on a stick about the length of a broom handle. The lower jaw had hinges and was arranged by means of a cord so that it would open and close. The strongest of the lads was selected for the horse. He stooped and supported himself by holding to the stick. Then he was covered with a horse cloth, and one of his companions mounted him, and such a kicking, rearing and gnashing of teeth as there was! They made the rounds of the houses begging a gratuity.

Wandering Jew's Christmas.

There was a common belief in some countries that the spirits of the lost had rest on Christmas night, and that when the hour comes that ushers in the holy season, the wandering Jew rests his weary feet, and with sad, upturned face gazes in the direction of Jerusalem where he struck the Savior in the time of his trial. A lamp or candle must not be permitted to burn to its end on Christmas, as that forbodes a death in the family during that year. For the same reason a live coal must not be taken out of the home on that day.

Armistice Day Committee

Renders Interesting Report

The amount realized by the Armistice Day vaudeville show, 1921, was $846.50. This money is, upon the receipting hereof, paid over to the financial officer of the Carmel Armistice Day committee to be disbursed in building the war memorial.

The fund turned in to the committee in charge of the memorial represents all but $13.64 of the money obtained by the sale of tickets and admissions. The only expenses incurred were for materials used for costumes.

The generosity of organizations and individuals made the large profit possible. The use of the halls, the shifting of scenery, the gathering of properties, publicity, services in acts on the bill, behind the scenes, and in managing the seating arrangements were freely given. There was, moreover, a turnout of two record audiences to reward the efforts of those who were in the show. Internal Revenue Collector John J. Flynn helped along the good work by remitting the war tax on the application of Editor Overstreet.

All in all, those in charge of the evening were relieved of every possible expense and are able to turn over the takings practically intact for the purpose to which the entertainment was dedicated. In making the report, the undersigned, trustees of the fund, serve as the representatives of the players, the persons and organizations who helped in presenting the programs, and the audiences who supported the enterprise.

Parkes-Hoagland

Miss Jeannette Hoagland and niece of Miss Saidee Van Bower, city clerk, and Earl Percy Parkes, building contractor, were married by Justice Ernest Michaelis, in Monterey, last Thursday morning.

Miss Hoagland has been a resident of Carmel for fifteen years and during that period has established a wide reputation as a dancer and as a teacher. She has numbered among her pupils many children of socially prominent families. She was the organizer and promoter of the "Woodland Dancers."

For several the groom has been one of Carmel's prominent and energetic business men. Many of the substantial and beautiful homes in this city and at Carmel Highlands were built by Mr. Parkes, and at present he has many contracts in hand. He came here from Los Angeles.

The Silva's Soon to Go Abroad

Wm. P. Silva, one of the most noteworthy of our local artists, is planning a European trip in the very near future. He expects to spend about two years in work and study, the first part of the time to be devoted to sketching in England and Scotland, with Paris and Venice as his objective. He is to be accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Caroline B. Silva.

Among Mr. Silva's paintings are two large framed oils of the Washington Monument. The pictures are called "The Nation's Landmark." One is done in the morning light, the other in the afternoon. Believing in the educational value of these pictures, Mr. Silva has donated one to the
